FM CONWAY STRIKES GOLD AT AWARDS CEREMONY

FM Conway, civil engineering, highways maintenance and recycling specialist, has received a gold award in recognition of the safety and consideration that its staff demonstrate.

It marks the eighteenth consecutive year that the Dartford-based company has been honoured by the Considerate Contractor Scheme, which is operated by The City of London.

The scheme, which first began in 1987, is designed to encourage building and civil engineering contractors working in the City to carry out their operations in a safe and considerate manner, showing regard to passing pedestrians and road users.

John Holliday, senior contracts manager at FM Conway, commented: "To receive awards from the City for nearly two decades is a great achievement for us. We take considerable time in planning our works and looking at how they are likely to impact on motorists and pedestrians."

In addition to the company award, 15 of FM Conway's workers in the City, received individual recognition for their continued high performance.

"It's a real team effort to keep standards consistently high," continued John. "It's therefore rewarding to see recognition for both FM Conway as a whole, as well as individuals.

"Everyone is dedicated to carrying out our work in the most efficient manner possible and avoiding unnecessary disruption to members of the public and I'm confident that we're well on our way to achieving our nineteenth year of success as part of the Considerate Contractors scheme."
